

closes # El Charro Restaurant, 140 W. Broadway Road, Tucson, on July 1, 1968, after closing the business. The restaurant was forced to vacate to make way for the Tucson Convention Center and other redevelopment projects. The business started on 4th Ave., moved near the Temple of Music and Art in 1930, then the Broadway location in 1935 and finally to the current location at 311 N. Court in 1968. # Art Grasberger / Tucson Citizen Lynn Bollinger # Lynn Bollinger's single-engine Helio plane took only 100-feet to get airborne from the historic El Conquistador Hotel (now El Con Mall), Tucson, in April, 1955. Bollinger claimed his plane was the slowest in the World. It could fly at 30 mph. # David Schreiber / Tucson Citizen Helio Aircraft # Lynn Bollinger's single-engine Helio plane took only 100-feet to get airborne from the historic El Conquistador Hotel (now El Con Mall), Tucson, in April, 1955. Bollinger claimed his plane was the slowest in the World. It could fly at 30 mph. # Arizona Daily Star file El Cine Plaza # The shuttered El Cine Plaza Theater, 318 E. Congress St., Tucson, in 1984. It was closed after a boiler explosion severely damaged the interior. It remained closed until 1995, when it was remodeled and opened as the Rialto Theatre. # David Schreiber / Tucson Citizen El Cine Plaza # The shuttered El Cine Plaza Theater, 318 E. Congress St., Tucson, in 1984. It was closed after a boiler explosion severely damaged the interior. It remained closed until 1995, when it was remodeled and opened as the Rialto Theatre. # David Schreiber / Tucson Citizen Pioneer